

The City of Forgetting

A Siege Adventure for Fate's Edge

*“Some cities are built on stone.
Heugen is built on the things people would kill to forget.”*

Contents

1	Introduction	3
2	Heugen at a Glance	4
3	Major Factions	5
4	Adventure Structure	6
5	Act I: The Approach	6
6	Act II: Under Siege	8
7	Act III: The Wells Below	12
8	Act IV: Revelation and Reckoning	16
8.1	Bestiary	19
8.1.1	Mykkiel's Emissaries	23
9	Emissary Clash Encounter Tables	23
9.1	General Doctrine Flashpoints (1d6)	23
9.2	Aveh-Sided Challenges (1d6)	24
9.3	Mykkiel-Sided Challenges (1d6)	24
9.4	Third Path Complications (1d6)	24
9.5	Doctrine Escalation Indicator	25
10	Talents and Rites of Mykkiel and Aveh	25
11	Dual-Faith Conversion Mechanics	25
11.1	The Devotion Spectrum	25
11.2	Faith Conflict Scenes	25
11.3	Dual-Oath Resolution	26
11.4	Synthesis Tokens	26
11.5	Faith Venue Tags	26
11.6	Patron Ambassadors	26
11.7	Ritual Contamination	27
11.8	GM Guidance	27
11.9	Rites of Mykkiel, Angel of Law and Form	27

11.10Talents of Mykkiel	27
11.11Rites of Aveh, Keeper of Unburdening and Estranged Ways	28
11.12Talents of Aveh	28
12 Conversion Rites (Opposed Faiths)	28

1 Introduction

Premise

The city of Heugen stands where the Paladian River meets the deserts of Galanina — a bustling port of exiles, runaways, and those who have bargained away their shame.

Two centuries ago, Temple of Light crusaders founded a fortified camp here, sworn to bring “radiant order” to the desert tribes. They failed catastrophically: their campaign collapsed into scandal, atrocity, and defeat. Their martyrs were denied, their narrative broken.

In the ruins of their faith, something answered.

They turned to Aveh, the Veiled Patron of Release, who promised them life without the weight of their past. The camp became a haven for the disgraced. Wells were blessed, lotus-fields planted, and rites woven to soften memory and unhook old vows.

Now Heugen is a thriving port-city of:

- exiled nobles and disowned heirs,
- deserters and oath-breakers,
- victims fleeing their abusers,
- witches and hedge-priests seeking peace.

Its lotus-tinctured wells and forgetting rites give it its nickname:

The City of Forgetting.

To followers of Mykkiel, Angel of Law, this is an abomination: a wound in the fabric of justice where crimes go unpunished, oaths lie fallow, and names are deliberately blurred.

An army marches under Mykkiel’s chained-halo banners. Their goal is simple: erase Heugen from the desert and restore memory to its fugitives.

Can the adventurers save a city built on forgetting? Should they?

Adventure Tier and Scope

This adventure is tuned for:

- Tier: III–IV characters (experienced to veteran)
- Tone: Moral drama, siege horror, political intrigue, memory magic
- Structure: 4–6 sessions (or more, if expanded)

It can be used as:

- a standalone mini-campaign centered on the siege of Heugen, or
- a major arc in a longer Fate’s Edge campaign.

Themes and Safety

This adventure touches on themes of:

- shame, trauma, and the desire to forget;
- justice vs. mercy;
- institutional abuse and religious zealotry;
- memory manipulation and loss of self.

Use safety tools appropriate for your group:

- Lines and Veils (what is off-limits vs. faded-to-black),
- X-Card or Script Change,
- open table check-ins during intense scenes.

Player-Facing Summary

Hook: An army of fanatical law-bringers marches to erase the City of Forgetting, where lotus-blessed wells and secret rites let people leave their past behind. You must choose: defend the city, expose its buried truths, bargain between gods — or burn it all down.

Core Questions:

- Is forgetting mercy, cowardice, or both?
- Who deserves a second life?
- What happens if memory itself becomes a battlefield?

2 Heugen at a Glance

City Identity

Heugen is:

- a river-port on the Paladian, wedged between dunes and marsh;
- a trade hub for salt, glass, lotus-ink, and contraband;
- a refuge city-state ruled by a Council of Masks (names optional);
- a ritual engine built atop wells that store memory instead of erasing it.

Lotus motifs are everywhere:

- stylised lotus sigils on doors (“I do not ask your past”),
- lotus petals in wine and tea,
- lotus pattern tilework in bathhouses and shrines,
- lotus-ink used for anonymous contracts.

District Sketches

Use these briefly sketched districts as flexible locations for scenes and encounters.

Lotus Wells Quarter

- Narrow lanes, shaded balconies, public wells watched by lotus-wardens.
- People come at dusk for “forgetting draughts” and confession-like rites.
- Hook: Fights often break out when someone refuses to drink.

Riverfront and Docks

- Flat-bottom barges, desert skiffs, and foreign galleys.
- Smugglers, runaway crews, desert tribesfolk, cloaked pilgrims.
- Hook: First place Mykkiel’s vanguard blockades with river-chains.

Mask Market

- Stalls selling masks, veils, false papers, and crafted new identities.
- Artisans who weave “lotus-names” — public aliases bound to a charm.
- Hook: A PC may already have a lotus-name they forgot taking.

The Cistern-Depths

- Flooded tunnels under the city where old water and older memories pool.
- Rumors of whispering echoes that call out your true name.
- Hook: The heart of the final choice: keep the memories buried or release them.

3 Major Factions

Mykkiel’s Host (SIEGE • LAW)

An army of auditors, paladins, and penitents under Mykkiel’s chained-halo icon.

- Goal: Destroy Heugen, restore memories to its people, purge “stolen law.”
- Methods: Siege, ritual audits, public “naming trials” where forgotten deeds are read aloud.
- Face: PRELATE-SENESCHAL RADAN, who genuinely believes he is saving souls by forcing them to remember.

The Lotus Council (CITY • AMNESTY)

Heugen’s shifting government: masked elders, exiled generals, and lotus-priestesses.

- Goal: Preserve the city’s function as a refuge and its pact with Aveh.
- Tension: Some want open war; others prefer bargaining or evacuation.
- Face: SPEAKER-OF-PETALS, a veiled leader whose identity may tie closely to a PC.

Aveh, the Veiled Patron (MERCY • OBLIVION)

A subtle, quiet patron whose miracles always cost something.

- Goal: Protect those who cannot bear their past, blur the sharp edges of memory.
- Secret: The memories are not destroyed; they are stored in the cisterns beneath Heugen.
- Manifestation: Lotus petals falling in still rooms, the taste of river-water like half-remembered lullabies, dreams where your younger self negotiates with a shadow.

Optional: Local Witchcraft Circles (COMMUNITY • THRESHOLD)

Neighborhood circles of threshold-witches (see Threshold magic section if using that module):

- maintain warded doorways and street-corners;
- shelter victims of both Temple and Mykkiel abuses;
- can become powerful allies or targets during the siege.

4 Adventure Structure

Run this adventure in four broad acts. Each act can hold one or more sessions.

1. Act I: The Approach — Arrival in Heugen as Mykkiel's host closes in.
2. Act II: Under Siege — Street-level missions, hard choices, and lotus bargains.
3. Act III: The Wells Below — Descent into the cistern-depths and memory vaults.
4. Act IV: Judgment of Heugen — A ritual, a siege climax, and the fate of memory itself.

Light Mechanic: Memory Pressure

Track a simple Memory Pressure [4] clock for the group.

Mark a segment when:

- the PCs exploit the city's forgetting for easy gain;
- they use lotus-draughts to dodge emotional consequences;
- they bargain away someone else's memories;
- they openly side with total erasure or total exposure.

When it fills, introduce a major twist:

- a PC's forgotten past resurfaces at the worst time;
- Aveh demands a collective price;
- Mykkiel's host gains a tactical advantage through revealed secrets.

5 Act I: The Approach

Goals

- Introduce Heugen, its lotus culture, and its contradictions.
- Present Mykkiel's Host as a looming but not-yet-inevitable threat.

- Tie at least one PC personally to the city’s past or its wells.

Opening Hooks

Choose one or mix several:

- Lotus Contract: The PCs are hired by the Lotus Council to act as outside negotiators or troubleshooters — plausible deniability when dealing with Mykkiel’s emissaries.
- Pursued Exile: One PC (with consent) is secretly from Heugen, having once drunk from the wells. Mykkiel’s vanguard has their true name on a writ.
- Lost Pilgrims: The PCs escort refugees toward Heugen as rumors of the oncoming crusade spread along the river.

Key Scenes

1. The Lotus Gate Arrival at Heugen’s river-gate:

- guards wear lotus sigils and mirrored veils;
- new arrivals may choose to drink or not;
- a tense moment when an old enemy of a PC fails to recognise them.

Choices:

- Drinking gains short-term social safety (fewer questions) but risks memory complications later.
- Refusing marks PCs as “anchored” — useful allies, but suspect to some locals.

2. Rumors of Chains In taverns, bathhouses, and markets:

- talk of an army marching under chained-halo banners;
- former Temple of Light veterans grow quiet or leave the room;
- a lotus-priestess asks the PCs what they would do if their worst deed were read aloud in public.

3. The First Writ Mykkiel’s Host sends a small delegation under a white flag:

- they deliver a Writ of Abrogation: Heugen is to be vacated, its wells sealed, its records surrendered;
- they publicly read one anonymous but horrifying past act tied to someone in the crowd — proving their power;
- the PCs can intervene to protect, expose, or bargain.

Escalation Trigger

End Act I when:

- the Lotus Council formally asks: “Will you help defend Heugen, or help us evacuate/appease Mykkiel’s host?”
- or when the PCs commit to a strong stance (defense, compromise, or betrayal).

6 Act II: Under Siege

Act Tone and Function

Act II shifts from rumor and positioning to immediacy and consequence.

Mykkiel's Host begins siege operations:

- river blockades tighten,
- outlying wells collapse under holy bombardment,
- masked elders debate surrender behind closed doors,
- exiles panic as old identities begin resurfacing.

The PCs navigate moral territory:

- Do we defend the city that hides sins?
- Is forgetting a mercy — or a refusal to heal?
- Should some memories be restored?

This act is about choosing sides while discovering what those sides really are.

Key Siege Clocks

Introduce these as the scaffolding of Act II:

- Siege Line [6] — when full, the Host breaches the riverfront.
- Council Schism [4] — when full, the Lotus Council fractures, spawning rival factions.
- Memory Surge [6] — when full, forgotten pasts erupt everywhere.

PC actions can fill or reduce these.

Siege Pressure Effects

Whenever a clock ticks up:

- increase ambient tension,
- show patrols, barricades, ration lines, and water-rites at the wells,
- reveal small tragedies — families drinking to forget, or refusing and breaking.

Major Scenes and Missions

Pick 2–4 for your group.

1. The First Breach Attempt Mykkiel's siege engineers deploy halo-chains across the river.

- PCs respond to a call for aid by lotus-wardens.
- A ritual duel of Naming vs. Forgetting plays out on bridges.
- PCs can:

- sabotage chains,
- parley with zealots,
- or sacrifice a well's power for temporary reprieve.

2. Masks Fall from Faces Someone important to the PCs is recognized by a former foe or victim.

- Optional twist: the PC does not remember who this person is.
- PCs can mediate, deny, or demand a lotus working.
- This is where personal stakes crystallize.

3. Council of Masks Fractures The Lotus Council calls the PCs into its chamber.

- one faction favors surrender,
- one advocates total erasure (collapse the cistern-depths),
- one proposes sanctioned remembrance: return pasts – selectively.

PCs may tip the scales.

GM Prompt: Cost of Influence

Any PC-recommended course becomes a public expectation:

- Success? They are praised as saviors.
- Failure? They are blamed as traitors or fools.

4. The Lotus Refineries Burn Mykkiel's Host uses sanctified fire to destroy the lotus-drying towers.

- Players must save workers,
- or protect lotus knowledge,
- or steal fire-secrets from the attackers.

This is a set-piece battle with lotus petals burning in violet haze.

5. The Memory Plague Emerges As siege pressure rises, memory instability hits Heugen:

- Crowds forget children,
- lovers forget grievances,
- zealots suddenly remember atrocities and crack.

The PCs must stabilize outbreaks with:

- lotus rites,
- threshold-magic,
- or brutal Mykkiel audits if they ally with the Host.

Act II NPC Gallery

Use these living chess pieces:

Speaker-of-Petals Veiled negotiator for the Lotus Council; pragmatic, haunted, might be tied to a PC's forgotten past.

Marshal Cruciant Siege tactician of Mykkiel's Host. Secretly doubts his cause but fears consequence.

The Aster Keeper A witch who runs the lotus wells. Protective, motherly, and terrifying when the water is threatened.

An Unnamed Child Shows up repeatedly, follows the PCs, calls one of them "mother" or "father". GM decides truth later.

Faction Shifts

Let faction alignment evolve:

- PCs aid the city: Mykkiel's Host escalates earlier.
- PCs strike a bargain: Lotus Council schism advances.
- PCs betray a well: Aveh withdraws, manifest wrath, or offers new pacts.

Act II Mechanical Twist: Lotus Tokens

Introduce Lotus Tokens:

- PCs earn 1 token when they defend someone's right to forget.
- PCs earn 1 token when they uncover painful hidden truth.

At 3 tokens, each PC receives a one-time benefit:

- Lotus Mercy: Remove a consequence or
- Lotus Revelation: regain/restore a forgotten bond.

But each token spent fills Memory Pressure. Lotus power always has a cost.

Transition to Act III: The Wells Below

Trigger Act III when:

- the PCs demand to know what lies beneath Heugen; or
- the lotus wells become unstable; or
- Mykkiel's Host breaches the outer wall.

A lotus-priestess (or Aveh itself) says:

“To save a city of forgetting, you must remember what lies beneath it.”

Lead the party into:

- the cistern-depths,
- vaults of stored memory,
- lotus-root catacombs,
- and perhaps the city’s buried origin.

7 Act III: The Wells Below

Act Tone and Function

Act III shifts the siege narrative inward.

The city's surface burns, starves, and fractures — but beneath Heugen lies the cistern-labyrinth where Aveh's blessing first took root.

This act is:

- fantastic archaeology,
- metaphysical infiltration,
- and personal crisis.

The PCs descend past lotus wells, aqueduct-veins, and memory-galleries into the buried truth of Heugen.

Environment: The Lotus Catacombs

The cisterns are not silent.

Features:

- Black, still water canals reflecting unreal versions of the PCs.
- Wall carvings showing pilgrims drinking the water and erasing names.
- Petal-falls drifting like snow, forming echoes of forgotten events.
- Lotus roots like ivory ribs arching overhead and underfoot.

Travel Dynamics: Treat the descent as a hazardous exploration:

- Root Collapse [4] — instability increases with noise or violence.
- Memory Echo [4] — hallucinations tempt PCs to alter their past.

Key Scenes and Revelations

Choose or remix these for pacing:

1. The Flooded Gallery Murals depict the founding crusaders kneeling not before light — but before a lotus-robed figure offering water.

- Perception / Lore tests reveal Aveh was once human.
- PCs may glimpse their own pasts in the water (GM selects).

2. The Vault of Unwritten Sins A spiral chamber of suspended clay masks.

- Each mask corresponds to a forgotten wrong.
- Touching one summons the event for judgement:
 - resolve it peacefully,
 - or accept a Mark of Memory (Condition),
 - or shatter it — evolving the Memory Surge.

3. The Sacrarium of Names An underground tribunal where lotus-priestesses once weighed guilt.

- PCs learn the Lotus Sacrament of Consent: no one was forced to forget — they asked to.
- Reveal that some fled justice by choosing erasure.

This is the moral hinge of the campaign.

4. Aveh's Chrysalis Chamber A chrysalis of lotus fibre and ossified bone.

- Aveh's presence speaks in divided voices: "I gave them mercy; they called it escape."
- PCs confront that forgetting is not healing.

Aveh may offer:

- boon,
- bargain,
- indictment,
- or unsettling truth.

The Wells of Heugen: Memory Economy

Drinking the Waters removes burdens—at a price.

Memory Tokens

Every PC begins with:

- Contacts (1–3 people they matter to)
- Histories (coping scars, debts, vows)
- Identity Pillars (titles, roles, reputations)

Treat these as Memory Tokens.

They may be spent during a scene to:

- Gain Position +1 for a roll
- Reduce a DV by 1

- Convert a Miss into a Partial
- Add +2d to a plea, duel, or rite

But: When you spend one, it is erased from the character— until restored by story or ritual.

City Cap and Power Scaling

The City Cap (Heugen's Fate) scales the benefit:

Cap 1: +1d or DV-1 only.

Cap 2: as above plus heal a Condition.

Cap 3: spend 1 Token to cancel a scene clock tick.

Cap 4+ spend 1 Token to rewrite fictional positioning: create an exit, expose a lie, force a truce.

When the crusade escalates, Cap increases. PCs can accelerate this—at terrible prices.

When Tokens Run Out

If a PC reaches zero Tokens: They become a Child of the Wells.

- Contacts forget them.
- Background and reputation dissolve.
- They can no longer use Aveh rites that require identity.

To reverse this, they must:

1. publicly name what was forgotten, and
2. be recognized by another as true.

Encounters and Adversaries

Lotus Husk-Guardians Forgotten sentients whose identities dissolved.

- Attack with lotus-laced touch that forces Memory Echo tests.
- Can be calmed by naming rituals or Lotus Tokens.

Unremembered Priests They offer rites with unknown cost, unable to recall their own vows.

- Bargain for safe passage,
- reveal lore,
- or collapse into hostile guilt-spirals.

Siege Intrusion Mykkiel's zealots breach into the cisterns.

- PCs may face exorcists who seek to purify the wells,
- triggering breach fights among root-chambers.

Act III Special Mechanic: Memory Trials

When a PC hears their name in the echoing water, they must resist revising their history.

Memory Trial

Roll Spirit + Resolve against DV determined by guilt-weight (3–6).

Success: You keep your memory; gain 1 Lotus Token.

Partial: You lose a detail truthfully; GM may introduce a new past tie.

Miss: You forget something important; the GM marks Memory Surge.

NPC Gallery

The Quiet Mask A silent judge of the Sacarium; offers gestures, not words.

The Aster Keeper Returned Appears here as her unforbidden self; reveals contradictions.

Aveh (Manifest / Soft-Spoken) Neither god nor ghost — an ideology that learned to speak.

Player Choices and Moral Forks

By the end of this act, PCs should decide:

- Does Heugen deserve protection?
- Should forgetting be defended or dismantled?
- Do we ally with Aveh, Mykkiel, or neither?

Transition to Act IV: Revelation and Reckoning

Trigger Act IV when:

- PCs commune directly with Aveh,
- or the Memory Surge reaches [6],
- or Mykkiel's Host breaches into the catacombs.

Aveh whispers:

“You cannot defend a city of forgetting without remembering what was buried.”

The way opens deeper — into the lotus-root vault, where the truth origin of Heugen sleeps.

8 Act IV: Revelation and Reckoning

Act Function

Act IV reveals that the conflict is not between gods, but between those who claim to serve them.

The city stands at a contested threshold:

- Aveh’s agents preach belonging without judgment,
- Mykkiel’s agents demand truth without exemption,
- both insist the Patron wishes their version obeyed.

The PCs must navigate competing “mouthpieces” of power.

The Root-Vault of Heugen

Location and Symbolism An inverted lotus chamber beneath the dunes:

- petals formed of salt and glass,
- memory-water flows upward in thin rivulets,
- sleeping inscriptions vibrate when truths or lies are spoken.

This is where the founders swore the covenant — recorded, but never understood.

Factional Arrival

Aveh’s Delegates Three rival emissaries descend:

- The Mask-Bearer, who promises absolution for a price,
- The Unbound Herald, who insists belonging means never naming harm,
- The Archivist of Strays, who believes belonging demands accountability.

Each claims: Aveh wills this.

Mykkiel’s Delegates Judicial expedition forces breach the vault:

- The Sword-Reader, pronouncing sentence on the city,
- The Law-Singer, who insists truth must be tempered by survival,
- The Seal-Bearer, who would bind the city instead of destroy it.

Each claims: Mykkiel decrees this.

Scene Structure

Run Act IV in three escalating stages:

1. The Memory Tribunal

The Lotus stirs, projecting suppressed memories — but no Patron speaks.

Instead:

- emissaries cite scripture differently,
- delegates try to recruit PCs as witnesses,
- old sins of the city echo without a clear voice.

Mechanic: PCs may
textbfdeclare a personal truth to gain 1 Truth-Favor.

2. The Schism Court

The Root-Vault becomes a court, but no judge presides.

Play Priority: the conflict is doctrinal, not divine.

- Aveh's factions accuse each other of betraying the Patron's mercy.
- Mykkiel's factions declare each other heretics misreading the Law.
- PCs serve as arbitrators or agitators by choice or necessity.

The vault reacts not to theology, but to:

- stated truths,
- acknowledged harms,
- reconciled contradictions.

3. The Lotus Fracture

Competing doctrines destabilize the vault:

- memory-water erupts into sandstorms,
- petals crack and bleed light,
- siege lines above buckle.

This is both literal and symbolic: no Patron intervenes — their will is inscrutable, and their agents are the ones tearing reality.

Special Mechanic: Truth Arbitration

Truth-Favor (Campaign Currency) When a PC:

- names a painful truth,
- bridges opposing doctrines,
- refuses to permit doctrinal violence,

they earn 1 Truth-Favor.

Truth-Favor can:

- reduce DV of persuasion in the vault,
- countermand a doctrinal “sentence,”
- prevent a Lotus collapse event.

Win Conditions of Act IV

Resolution does not come from:

- slaying emissaries,
- summoning Patrons,
- or proving one creed “right.”

Instead, the vault stabilizes when the PCs demonstrate:

- Synthesis: belonging acknowledged, truth accounted for.
- Restraint: neither delegations nor zealots decide alone.
- Naming Harm: the city’s past is spoken instead of swallowed.

Trigger Act V when:

- emissaries fall silent,
- inscriptions react to the PCs instead of agents,
- and an ancient voice — not a Patron, but the first founder — asks:

“Whose will shall we live by — yours, or another’s?”

Doctrine Conflict Subsystem

Emissaries of Patrons assert competing interpretations of divine will. The PCs resolve these conflicts through narrative arbitration rather than force.

Doctrine Claims When two factions assert incompatible readings of a Patron’s will, create a Doctrine Clash [4] clock.

- Fill 1 tick when emissaries escalate rhetoric.
- Fill 1 tick when PCs stall, equivocate, or refuse to engage.
- Clear 1 tick when PCs articulate a reconciling truth or expose contradiction.

Clash Resolution When Doctrine Clash fills, the factions split violently:

- riots, purges, or zealotry erupt,
- siege lines fracture,

- and the Lotus Vault destabilizes.

When Doctrine Clash empties through reconciliation:

- emissaries fall silent,
- a third path becomes available,
- and the vault reacts to PCs as arbiters rather than witnesses.

PC Leverage: Truth-Favor When PCs:

- name painful truths,
- spotlight hypocrisy,
- or invoke shared stakes,

award 1 Truth-Favor. Spend 1 Truth-Favor to:

- clear 1 tick on Doctrine Clash,
- or suppress zealot escalation for a scene.

This subsystem rewards narrative mediation while making doctrine tension tangible without requiring divine intervention.

8.1 Bestiary

[The Wells-Worm — Shame Devourer] BOSS • MEMORY • DESERT • PSYCHIC

Sand bulges like lungs; whispering voices underfoot; lotus petals desiccate.

It never speaks first. If someone confesses truth, it recoils. If someone lies, the sand stirs.

Profile

- Tier: IV
- Scale: Huge (city threat)
- Presence: Oppressive, horizon-spanning
- Position: Starts Dominant
- Resonance: Gains strength from forgotten things

Boss Moves

- Consume Memory: Force a PC to lose a Memory Token and heal a Phase.
- Sand Maw Drag: Pull a PC underground into a hallucinated past.
- False Relief: Offer to take away a burden—mark Corruption if accepted.
- Echoed Guilt: Speak in the voice of someone the PC failed.
- Burrowing Surge: Erupt under a group, scattering them across zones.

SB Menu (GM Spending)

1. Target loses 1 Memory Token (unnamed).
2. The Worm becomes Hidden until provoked.
3. A PC hears a forgotten voice—mark Shadowed.
4. Crowd or NPCs panic and flee or betray.
5. A crusader claims “This proves the city must burn.”

Phases of the Wells-Worm

The creature cannot be slain—only forced to disgorge what it has eaten.

It manifests in three escalating forms:

Phase I: The Burrowed Serpent

- Attack: Sand Lash (Fatigue 2 + displacement)
- Trigger: PCs reveal vulnerability → The Worm surfaces
- Vulnerability: Public naming of personal truths lowers its Position

Phase II: The Mirror of Shame

- Attack: Manifest someone forgotten, forcing confession
- Trigger: First Phase defeated or someone Confesses
- Special: PCs must speak truth or lose 1 Memory Token
- Vulnerability: Collective witness (three or more PCs acknowledge truth)

Phase III: The Voice of Forgetting

- Attack: The Offer — “Let it go, and walk free.” PCs may:
Accept: Heal a Condition but lose 2 Tokens.
Refuse: Take Fatigue +1 and become Shadowed.
- Trigger: First two shells unraveled
- Vulnerability: PCs must confess an unspoken truth — and be witnessed.

Confrontation & Negotiation

Negotiation is possible—at grave risk.

- DV: 5 (Desperate)
- Stake: On Miss, the Worm eats the negotiator’s Identity Pillar
- Reward: The Worm releases 1 eaten soul or memory into play

Weaknesses

- Confession.
- Collective witness.
- Name-speaking: When three truths are named aloud, reduce its Scale.

Defeat Conditions

The Worm cannot be slain — but it can be driven back if:

1. at least one truth is confessed publicly,
2. three witnesses acknowledge it, and
3. someone refuses its Offer at cost.

If all are met, it vomits up a reliquary: a lotus kernel containing memory, soul, or city secret.

Escalation: The City Under Judgment

Each time the Wells-Worm is confronted:

- Raise the City's Cap by 1
- Shift one district toward:
 - Forgetfulness* identity dissolves, or
 - Remembrance* painful truth surfaces
- Crusade Clocks advance: "Proof of Sin" or "Purging Justified"

Crusader Propaganda: The Wells-Worm as Proof of Sin

The adherents of Mykkiel do not see the Wells-Worm as a horror to understand—they see it as confirmation.

To them, it is the inevitable consequence of a city built on hidden shame: a desert-born parasite that thrives on unconfessed truths.

Their commanders call it:

"A scourge fed by secrecy, and thus proof the people are unworthy to rule themselves."

Messaging Themes Crusader preachers and heralds twist sightings into a narrative:

- The Worm is Aveh's Shadow: evidence that the city's pact is corrupt.
- It Feeds on Forgetting: therefore its existence reveals a population too weak to remember righteousness.
- Only Purification Ends It: siege, confession, subjugation—or flame.

Mechanics: Siege of Narrative Treat propaganda as a Weapon:

Effect: Each time the Worm surfaces publicly, the Crusader Moral Clock ticks +1.

If full: The Crusaders' resolve becomes unbreakable; parley DV +2 until the city performs a public Rite of Contrition.

Scene Effects When crusader agents spread this rhetoric:

- Civilians fracture: some demand absolution, some denial.
- City Guard morale wavers.
- Priests of Aveh grow divided: is the Worm a test or a curse?

Rumor Engine Whenever the Worm acts or is glimpsed, roll 1d6:

- 1 “The Worm speaks—the city hides something.”
- 2 “Aveh cannot protect us; Mykkiel saw this coming.”
- 3 “The Worm appeared at the well—it smells our guilt.”
- 4 “The crusaders warned us; now they must save us.”
- 5 “The walls are lies, the Worm is the truth.”
- 6 “Only submission will end this horror.”

Each rumor advances one clock:

- Crisis of Faith [4]
- Crusader Legitimacy [6]

Counterplay: Truth as Rebuttal PCs or Aveh's agents reduce these Clocks by:

- Public Witness to truth
- Naming wounds and sins openly
- Leading communal rites of remembrance

These reduce either Clock by 1–2, depending on crowd size and sincerity.

Design Note for GMs Do not overwrite player success with propaganda—use it as tension. Every sighting of the Wells-Worm increases pressure to either:

- cleanse the city, or
- change it

Both paths are victory conditions—but with radically different endings.

[Mask-Bearer of Aveh] EMISSARY • BELONGING-AS-FLIGHT • MERCY-TWISTED Veiled face; lacquered mask; voice soothing but hollow. Offer absolution without cost; erase confessed memory; inflame denial of harm. Mask-Pardon (ignore a Sin clock tick), Forgetting Rite (one shame erased), Sanctuary Under Mask (1 scene). Unmasked truths; survivors whose harm persists; any demand for accountability. [Archivist of Strays] EMISSARY • BELONGING-AS-ACCOUNTING • REPARATIVE Featherless quill; scrolls that bleed ink; calm counting tone. Name unpaid harms;

price restitution; stabilize conflict through witnessing. Record of Reckoning (DV -1 to mediation), Ledger of Mercy (reduce Harm by 1 if debt named), Witness Seal (1 scene truce). Silence; lies; crowds demanding clean absolution. [Unbound Herald] EMISSARY • BELONGING-AS-DENIAL • HONEYED Open palms; too-smooth voice; always interrupts accountability. Deflect blame; collapse nuance; turn reconciliation into accusation of division. Sweetness of Silence (DV -1 to ignore conflict), “We Are One” Mantle (Position +1 vs truth-sayers). Named specifics; harmed voices; receipts of consequence.

8.1.1 Mykkiel’s Emissaries

[Sword-Reader of Mykkiel] EMISSARY • LAW-AS-BLADE • ZEALOT Razor bound in scripture; no shadow; verdicts spoken as cuts. Pronounce sentence without context; escalate punishment; mark heresy clocks. Sentence Seal (one person bound), Purity Look (truth forced), Blade of Measure (Position +1 to dominate parley). Ambiguity; testimony of nuance; conflicting doctrine.

[Law-Singer of Mykkiel] EMISSARY • LAW-AS-TEMPERANCE • PRAGMATIC Balancing tones; sand-shaped runes; voice like steel smoothed. Reinterpret verdicts into mercy; grant amnesty clauses; stabilize crowds. Harmonized Mandate (reduce Suffering clock by 1), Tempered Seal (truce scene), Binding Hymn (DV -1 to reconciliation). Extremes—either faction freezes them out.

[Seal-Bearer of Mykkiel] EMISSARY • LAW-AS-BINDING • CARCERAL Lead scrolls; waxen sigils; keys for unseen locks. Bind a region under oath; demand confession for liberation; convert conflict into custody. Bond-Seal (bind a district), Confession Rite (DV -1 on interrogation), Safe Custody (protect a target while holding them). Ungoverned spaces; refusals to name wrongs; impossible witnesses.

9 Emissary Clash Encounter Tables

Emissary clashes occur when rival interpretations of Patron will collide in view of mortals. These tables generate scenes, pressure points, and third-party complications.

Roll 1d6, or select for thematic fit.

9.1 General Doctrine Flashpoints (1d6)

1. The Misheard Miracle: A small supernatural sign is witnessed; two emissaries issue contradictory readings.
2. The Surviving Victim: A harmed voice interrupts ritual narratives, demanding accountability or mercy.
3. The Unclaimed Dead: A body becomes locus of dispute — punishment or absolution?
4. The Found Testament: A fragment of doctrine surfaces but its ambiguity fuels escalation.
5. The Crowd Turns: Onlookers adopt the most dramatic interpretation, driving panic and zealotry.
6. The Public Accusation: One emissary denounces another as heretical; the clash polarizes bystanders.

9.2 Aveh-Sided Challenges (1d6)

1. Confession Without Cost: Mask-Bearers offer absolution so freely it destabilizes bonds; reckoners object.
2. The Forgotten Debt: A victim remembers harm despite absolution, triggering repudiation of false mercy.
3. Ledger Crack: Two Aveh emissaries argue whether belonging requires consequence or forgetting.
4. Sweet Denial: The Unbound Herald interrupts accountability, accusing truth-seekers of betrayal.
5. Runaway Refugee: A supplicant flees into Aveh's faction — was it sanctuary or abduction?
6. Memory Leak: A forgotten truth resurfaces; Aveh-aligned factions recoil, Mykkiel's escalate.

9.3 Mykkiel-Sided Challenges (1d6)

1. Sentence Without Context: Sword-Readers demand punitive verdicts; Law-Singers struggle to temper them.
2. Confession Shaping Truth: A Seal-Bearer demands public testimony that distorts narrative for custody.
3. Mercy on Trial: A Law-Singer grants reprieve; zealots call it heresy.
4. Binding the Wrong One: A Seal-Bearer shackles an innocent; Aveh emissaries weaponize outrage.
5. Purity Riot: Punishers whip a crowd into zealotry; PCs must redirect or disperse.
6. Doctrine Split: Two Mykkiel factions pronounce opposed interpretations; schism clock rises.

9.4 Third Path Complications (1d6)

These scenes appear when PCs clear Doctrine Clash (§8) or assert reconciliatory truths.

1. Reconciliation Vision: A supernatural sign points to shared stakes — emissaries hesitate.
2. The Forgotten Clause: A doctrinal artefact surfaces showing both sides once shared a covenant.
3. The Returning Witness: Someone harmed by both sides demands a new framework, not victory.
4. The Lotus Insight: PCs glimpse a transcendent reading — emissaries falter, crowd listens.
5. The Silent Audience: A supernatural hush forces emissaries to hear, not speak.
6. The Ledger Tears: A metaphysical record splits — PCs can rewrite doctrine or let chaos rewrite it.

9.5 Doctrine Escalation Indicator

Whenever three emissary scenes occur without reconciliation, increase the Doctrine Clash clock by 1.

Whenever a Third Path scene resolves peacefully, reduce the clock by 1.

10 Talents and Rites of Mykkiel and Aveh

This section provides thematic Talents and usable Rites for two opposed but intertwined Patrons: Mykkiel (Law, Form, Judgement) and Aveh (Forgetfulness, Refuge, Unmaking of Shame). These entries reflect mortal interpretation — Patrons do not act directly.

11 Dual-Faith Conversion Mechanics

Some characters walk between Patrons. This subsystem enables dramatic, mechanical representation of dual-faith loyalty without complex bookkeeping.

Patrons possess want and will but no agency; their followers act in their names, often at cross-purposes.

11.1 The Devotion Spectrum

Each character may track faith tension on a single spectrum:

$$-3 \text{ (PatronAextreme)} \quad 0 \text{ (Balanced)} \quad +3 \text{ (PatronBextreme)}$$

Only major revelation, vow, or rite scene shifts the spectrum.

Mechanical Effects by Position

-2 or lower: Gain Position +1 when acting in Patron A's ethos, but Position -1 when acting under Patron B's ethos.

0: Gain +1d when mediating faith conflicts, but suffer DV +1 on either side when pressed to choose.

+2 or higher: Gain Position +1 under Patron B's ethos, but Position -1 under Patron A's.

11.2 Faith Conflict Scenes

When a scene revolves around doctrinal choice, the GM places the character at Controlled, Desperate, or Dominant based on:

- which Patron's ethos the action aligns with,
- their current spectrum position,
- witness pressure (emissaries, crowds, oathkeepers).

11.3 Dual-Oath Resolution

If a character simultaneously holds vows from two Patrons:

- When rolling under either vow, any 1s trigger a choice:
 1. Offend One Faith — mark Spiritual Conflict (Condition) with that Patron; or
 2. Delay Judgment — increase the Devotion Spectrum by 1 toward indecision (toward 0).

Resolving Spiritual Conflict A dramatic scene is required:

- Public prioritization of one vow over another, or
- Syncretic declaration recognized by witnesses.

Clearing the Condition restores normal action.

11.4 Synthesis Tokens

When a character successfully blends rites, customs, or mediates opposed faithful, they gain a Synthesis Token.

Each token may be spent to:

- improve Position +1 on a faith-based roll,
- gain +1d on parley between opposed factions,
- establish temporary sanctuary in contested religious space.

Synthesis Tokens reset after significant betrayal or revelation.

11.5 Faith Venue Tags

Scenes may be marked with religious tags:

Shrine-Favored: Those aligned to Patron A gain Position +1; Patron B aligned suffer Position -1.

Temple-Favored: Reverse of Shrine-Favored.

Contested Ground: Both sides Position -1 until someone bridges the divide (GM may spend 1 SB to create opportunity).

Venue tags shift only after decisive events or rites.

11.6 Patron Ambassadors

Characters who consistently bridge opposed faiths may earn:

Ambassador Status: Once per session, convert a faith-based Position penalty into a bonus.

Ambassador Status is lost if the character publicly betrays one faith.

11.7 Ritual Contamination

Performing a Patron's rite in unfavored ground marks a Contamination Token:

- suffers -1d on faith rolls until purified, forgiven, or confessed.
- may be converted to XP (1 token = 1 XP toward faith talent).

11.8 GM Guidance

- Faith tension works best when visible to NPCs.
- Place opportunity in scenes for syncretic declaration.
- Let emissaries disagree over interpretation — Patrons do not act in person, only through mortal mandate.

Play Intent: These mechanics frame conversion as identity conflict with consequences, not a statline optimization.

11.9 Rites of Mykkiel, Angel of Law and Form

Domain Themes Oaths, structure, duty, naming, binding, revelation through ordeal.

- Seal the Ledger [BIND] [TRUTH] [SANCTION]
Mark a witnessed oath. Until fulfilled or renounced, both sides gain +1d when acting in alignment, and suffer +1 DV when acting against it.
- Sword of Interpretation [JUDGE] [CUT] [CLARIFY]
Force one truth into prominence. A contested scene must pivot around that interpretation; resisting it costs +1 Fatigue.
- Light of Sentence [REVEAL] [SHAME] [FORM]
Unmask one concealed intention or guilt. Targets must speak or pay 1 Harm or Condition (GM discretion).
- Sanctified Witness [SEAL] [ORDER] [TEST]
Create a space where actions become binding and logged. Social or magical violence carries an added price (Condition: Marked).
- Clause of Mercy [REPRIEVE] [BALANCE] [LEDGER]
Designate a sin forgiven — but bind the forgiven to one duty that, if failed, doubles consequences.
- Sword-Quiet [SILENCE] [COMPULSION] [LAW]
Still a riot or argument long enough for judgment. Lasts one scene; backlash creates rivals with Just Cause.

11.10 Talents of Mykkiel

Doctrine-Bearer (4 XP): Once per session, declare one outcome as precedent. Allies gain +1d when invoking your ruling; enemies do so too in appeal.

Witness of the Unnamed Price (6 XP Prestige): When you mark someone guilty (fictionally), once per session you may shift one failed roll into a partial — but mark 1 Fatigue for the burden of judgment.

Mercy as Blade (4 XP): When you spare someone, gain Position +1 against them until they betray or defy your mercy.

11.11 Rites of Aveh, Keeper of Unburdening and Estranged Ways

Domain Themes Forgetting, refuge, belonging, shedding past harm, dissolving identity into new masks.

- Drift the Ledger [FORGET] [MASK] [BREAK]
Remove one witnessed shame or debt for a scene. Afterward, roll DV 3: on Miss, it resurfaces twisted.
- Mask Right of Sanctuary [REFUGE] [ROLE] [COST]
Grant someone absolution from past name or crime; they take on a new mask until dawn or crisis. This creates debts the GM may invoke.
- Lotus Sip [FORGET] [CALM] [SUBLIME]
Ease Harm or Fatigue in a target, but they temporarily lose an important memory or drive.
- Unmake the Chain [SUNDER] [ESCAPE] [UNMAP]
Break a declared consequence, bond, or pursuit. Alarmingly popular with fugitives.
- The Sweet Lie [VEIL] [COMFORT] [HOOK]
Offer a truth as they wish it to be. For one scene, they gain +1d when acting under the lie; at scene end, mark a complication.
- Breath of the Nameless Feast [ABSOLVE] [FADE] [COST]
Consume a small shame or misdeed — gain 1 Boon, but someone else experiences its consequence.

11.12 Talents of Aveh

Mask-Shift Initiate (4 XP): Once per session, remove a social or narrative stigma from yourself or an ally — it returns later in altered form.

Keeper of Lost Doors (6 XP Prestige): You can declare “There was always another way out.” Spend 1 Fatigue to rewrite one exit or solution into the fiction.

Sap of Forgetting (2 XP Minor): When you comfort someone, you may ease their Condition — but they lose a small truth or detail they valued.

12 Conversion Rites (Opposed Faiths)

Conversion between Patrons is never simple. These rites represent ritualized thresholds that mark allegiance, temptation, conflict, or synthesis between opposed faiths.

All conversion rites carry risk: they may shift the Devotion Spectrum (§11) or mark Spiritual Conflict.

Rite of First Leaning

LOW [DECLARATION] [OATH]

Effect: The supplicant publicly voices doubt in their current Patron or expresses aspiration toward another. Gain:

- +1 Synthesis Token if done with witness
- OR shift the Devotion Spectrum one step toward the desired Patron

Cost: Mark +1 Exposure to emissary scrutiny. If secrecy is kept, gain no benefit.

Rite of Renunciation

STANDARD [OATH] [CONFLICT] [TRIAL]

Effect: A symbolic cutting of ties: burning a token, unmaking a vow, or shaming a past title.

Shift Devotion Spectrum by 2 toward the new faith, but mark Spiritual Conflict unless a witness validates the act.

Push It: If the rite is performed in unfavored ground without permission, gain +1d on the shift but mark a Contamination Token.

Rite of the Two Lamps (or Two Wells)

STANDARD [MEDIATION] [BALANCE]

Effect: A ritual of dual affirmation: one hand to each altar, lamp, or well. Roll Spirit + Resolve to maintain balance.

- Success: Gain Ambassador Status for this scene.
- Partial: Mark 1 Synthesis Token but suffer DV +1 vs either side.
- Miss: Trigger a doctrinal challenge scene immediately.

Rite of Invocation by Doubt

HIGH [TEST] [REVELATION]

Effect: The supplicant petitions a Patron through uncertainty: “I do not know; show me.”

GM frames a vision or emissary encounter. Resolve a DV 4–5 Insight test.

- Success: Shift devotion one step AND gain a hidden name, phrase, or rite fragment from the target Patron.
- Partial: Shift devotion but mark Spiritual Conflict.
- Miss: Emissaries contradict — gain +2 Suspicion in the opposing faction.

Rite of Severance and Binding

EXTENDED [OATH] [SACRIFICE] [WITNESS] [SCAR]

Effect: A profound vow: the supplicant binds themselves to a Patron's ethos while severing their former identity.

Choose:

- Sacrifice a Resource
- Sacrifice Harm 2
- Sacrifice a Reputation tag

Shift devotion 2–3 steps and clear Spiritual Conflict.

Obligation: Mark an Obligation Clock [4]:

- fulfill a service,
- spread doctrine,
- restore something wronged.

If unfulfilled, the spectrum swings back by 2.

Rite of Syncretic Crown (Final Rite)

LEGENDARY [UNITY] [NARRATIVE] [JUDGMENT]

Effect: This rite may only occur once the supplicant has:

- touched both faiths meaningfully,
- mediated a conflict scene,
- survived emissary judgment.

The supplicant declares their synthesis — a principle that both Patrons could accept.

Mechanical Resolution:

- Roll Spirit + Command or Spirit + Lore (DV 5+)
- Spend 1–3 Synthesis Tokens

Success:

- Character moves to Devotion 0 (Balanced)
- Gain permanent Ambassador Talent (ignore first Position penalty in faith scenes per session)
- Either faith may claim them as a righteous example

Partial:

- Balanced devotion, but mark Spiritual Conflict
- One faction becomes hostile or demands a price

Miss: The rite is rejected publicly — shift devotion to the extreme of whichever faith dominates the scene and mark +2 Suspicion.

Possession & Exorcism

A soul may be seized by:

- guilt too large to bear,
- a memory denied,
- or a hungry emissary’s doctrine.

Possession Procedure

When a PC or NPC breaks under pressure, mark:

Shadowed: they hear whispers of their buried truth.

Claimed: they act upon it without consent.

Lost: the entity speaks through them.

Exorcism as Rite or Duel

The Mykkiel Method: Purge by Confession

- DV 4 (Desperate)
- spend 1 Memory Token (named)
- roll Spirit + Resolve
- On Success: entity expelled but shame remains as scar

The Aveh Method: Relinquish and Rewrite

- DV 4 (Controlled)
- PCs or target rewrite the memory: change “what happened” into “what it means now”
- spend 1 Contact or Pillar
- On Success: entity dissolves; target heals but forgets

Failure Effects

- Entity becomes external (spawn “Shame-Worm spawn”)
- PCs gain Corruption or lose Token involuntarily
- Crusaders gain proof the city must burn

Dual-Faith Exorcism

If both rites are used:

- PCs spend 2 Tokens combined
- Target is freed and remembers—but must now choose a patron