

The Silk & Velvet Arc

An Urban Intrigue Adventure for Fate's Edge

Tiers I–III — 6–10 sessions — Social maneuvering, ritual peril, political theatre

---

What This Is

A complete, table-ready arc set across the trade-bridge city of Silkstrand, a night of high etiquette at Ravenswood Manor, and the stair-ruled metropolis of Thepyrgos. Themes: contracts and crowds; masks and glamour; law as performance. The adventure emphasizes Position play, interlocking clocks, and a flavorful SB economy.

At a Glance

- Part I — A Song of Poison and Plague (Tier I–II): Urban investigation as the Gemcutters and Alchemists edge toward riots while a bard of Desire plays both sides.
- Part II — The Gilded Cage (Tier II–III): Survive a night of velvet hospitality; each room is a social encounter with taboos and tells.
- Part III — The Crimson Masque (Tier III): A public ritual threatens to swap the souls of the city's elite with the troupe; stop it on stage before the final bell.

System Notes. Use the game's Position ladder and DV to make leverage matter. City-specific s represent codified outcomes (permits, seats, escorts) that shift Position without a roll. Clocks pace consequences. The GM spends SB when 1s appear to twist crowds, shift law, or advance rails.

Adventure Background

Silkstrand sits over dyed waterways and legal bridges; permits and seals are visible power. Two guilds—Gemcutters and Alchemists—blame each other for “poisoned” water. Sel Virelle, a charismatic devotee of Desire, orchestrates paranoia to ripen the city for a prestige heist by the Crimson Masque troupe, agents of Glamour. Their endgame plays out in Thepyrgos, where bell-law and stair-rights can crown or crush reputations overnight.

Session Count & Tier Flow

Intended for 6–10 sessions. Start at Tier I, crest at Tier III. Each part includes typical DV and Position guidance to ease scaling.

Core Tools for the GM

Position & DV Quick Reference

Position	Typical DV	Examples of Fictional Advantage
Dominant	Tier + 2	You hold permits, the crowd favors you, law is on your side.
Controlled	Tier + 3	Proper introductions, stable footing, watch is neutral.
Risky	Tier + 4	Time pressure, hostile witnesses, partial leverage.
Desperate	Tier + 5 or more	No permits, hostile crowd, taboo broken, the clock is high.

Typical DVs by Part

Part	Common DV Range	Notes
I: Silkstrand	3–4	Documents and Diamonds can drop DV by 1 before rolling.
II: Ravenswood	4–5	Etiquette taboos raise DV; reading tells can lower DV by 1.
III: Thepyrgos	5–6	Public ritual actions start high; dismantling pillars lowers DV.

Diamonds as Leverage

Diamond	Fictional Authority	Effect
Matron’s Audience	You may petition Silkstrand’s Matron in session.	Shift Position one step up once/scene; –1 DV on petitions.
Arsenal Key	Authorized access to a guild armory or lockup.	Once/session, declare gear or evidence “on hand”.
Bellmark	A stamped right to invoke bell-law in Thepyrgos.	Once/scene, freeze a crowd or call watch for 1 beat.
Stair-Pass	Priority use of a named stair during events.	Downshift Position consequences from crowd pressure.
Escort Writ	Legal escort through markets/bridges.	Ignore one blockade or mob once/session.

SB Spend Menus (Use When 1s Appear)

Silkstrand

- Bridge duel erupts nearby; escalate a scene or split the party.
- Market panic closes a route; add 1 to a public clock.
- Dyewater omen flips the crowd’s mood against the PCs.
- Notary “corrects” a permit; Position downshift for one exchange.

Ravenswood Manor

- Etiquette whisper spreads; tick Etiquette Breach [1].

- Hospitality favors a rival; your next roll is at higher DV.
- Servant intervention reroutes you to a new room at a cost.

Thepyrgos

- Bell strikes early; advance the Act clock.
- Stair-right revoked temporarily; block or split routes.
- Law change mid-scene; transform a planned action's Position.

Clocks to Start With

Keep clocks lean at first; layer more as play demands.

- City Unrest [6] (Silkstrand)
- Poisonings [4] (Silkstrand)
- Sel's Glamour Net [4]
- Choose one guild reputation to track first: Gemcutters' Favor [4] or Alchemists' Favor [4]

Part I — A Song of Poison and Plague (Tier I–II)

Strong Hooks (Choose 1–2 to Open)

- Dyewater Omen: The river runs a prophetic hue; the crowd demands action from anyone wearing steel or sigils.
- Bridge Duel Gone Wrong: A fatal misstep during a public duel implicates a guild; the watch seeks neutral witnesses (the PCs).
- Missing Ledgers: Archivolt records vanish; without them, permits are void and riots loom.

Core Clocks

City Unrest [6], Poisonings [4], Sel's Glamour Net [4], plus one Guild Favor clock.

Key NPCs

- Guildmistress Kavra (Gemcutters) — Desires: stability, monopoly on luxury. Leverage: bravos, patronage. Tell: rubs thumb over a signet when lying.
- Master Orun (Alchemists) — Desires: legitimacy, funding. Leverage: inspectors, antidotes. Tell: recites measurements under stress.
- Sel Virelle (Bard of Desire) — Desires: acclaim, volatility. Leverage: charmed witnesses. Tell: mirrors phrasing to draw agreement.

Scenes

Redwater Audit. Enter the dyeworks with forged or earned permits. Position starts Controlled; DV 3–4. On success with cost, allow entry but spend SB to tick Poisonings [+1] or call an Alchemist observer. Magic: Alchemical detection, illusions to mimic stamps, or subtle glamours to steer crowds shine here.

Alleyway Serenade. Sel “rescues” a bystander from a mob to win PC trust. Reading her tells can downshift DV. Failure-forward: the PCs earn a (Escort Writ) but tick Sel’s Glamour Net [+1].

Three-Queens Duel. A formal bridge duel settles a permit dispute. Stakes: purse, permit, or pride. Victory can clear 1 from a Guild Favor clock; loss still reveals a planted second’s testimony.

Archivolt Ledgers. Track falsified entries to a clerks’ circle. Options: bribe (Diamonds), debate in public (drop DV by 1 with a crowd), or stealth (risk Desperate). On a miss, the ledgers you do find implicate an ally—use as leverage later.

Climax Options

- Public Debate at Lion Bridge: Expose Sel. If you sway the crowd, cool City Unrest [-2]. If you fail, you still win a legal foothold but Glamour Net [+2].
- Quiet Sabotage: Collapse distribution of forged evidence; gain a permanent (Matron’s Audience) but sour one guild permanently.
- Arrest & Bargain: Trade Sel’s testimony for guild peace; start Part II with social capital at Ravenswood.

Fail-Forward Examples (Part I).

- Audit Miss: You are barred, but a junior clerk slips you an appointment chit (treat as a temporary )—and the watch starts tailing you.
- Duel Miss: You lose the bout, but the crowd turns on the victor over a rule infraction; shift Position up in the next public scene.
- Ledger Heist Miss: You grab the wrong ledger; it names a friend. Keep it and gain leverage, or return it and earn a favor.

Part II — The Gilded Cage (Tier II–III)

Structure

Track Midnight Duel [8] (the rival’s plot) and Etiquette Breach [4] (your faux pas). Every room lists an Intent, a Taboo, and a Tell. Violating taboos increases DV or ticks Etiquette Breach [+1]. Reading tells can reduce DV by 1.

Rooms

Conservatory of Masks. Intent: choose alliances. Taboo: wearing the same mask twice. Tell: a rival never mirrors your stance. Magic: Disguises and glamours gain a clear advantage; clever illusions can “prove” etiquette creatively.

Library of Additions. Intent: alter contracts with lawful flourishes. Taboo: citing a text you cannot produce. Tell: a steward coughs before lies. Magic: Divination or memory magic can surface the missing clause; ritual ink resists forgery unless properly countered.

Ballroom of Vows. Intent: demonstrate poise. Taboo: cutting a trio dance to two. Tell: a partner flinches at touch. Magic: Subtle enchantments risk taboos; protective magic can prevent social harm without force.

Outcomes

- Favor the Host: Gain introductions—begin Part III with a Bellmark.
- Favor the Challenger (Glamour-touched): Receive access to the Masque’s rehearsal; start Act I behind the curtain.
- Seize the Venue: Control the guest list that matters later; start with Position at Dominant for Act I scene one.

Fail-Forward Examples (Part II).

- Mask Faux Pas: Etiquette Breach [+1], but you notice a hidden side-door used by rivals.
- Contract Gaffe: Your addition is rejected publicly; the steward, impressed by your boldness, offers a private reading later (lower DV once).
- Dance Misstep: You stumble, but hear a whispered cue that reveals the rival’s schedule.

Part III — The Crimson Masque (Tier III)

Act Structure

Run as a three-day countdown to the final performance.

- Act I (Day −3): Infiltrate rehearsals, court patrons, secure stair access.
- Act II (Day −2/−1): Decode the rite; seed counters in law, masks, or music.
- Act III (Performance Night): On-stage skill challenge; illusions are real; dismantle ritual pillars.

Ritual Pillars (Break One to Stop the Rite)

- Bell Cadence: The final peal synchronizes souls. Counter with bell-law, a forged bellmark, or a timed silence.
- Mask Index: Masks hold targeted identities. Swap labels, smudge index entries, or sanctify a mask to render it immune.
- Applause Escrow: The ovation stores consent. Split the crowd, mute applause, or redirect acclaim to the troupe alone.

On-Stage Challenge (Guidance)

Start at DV 6 (Desperate). Each broken pillar lowers DV by 1 and shifts Position up. Failure-forward should always change the stage: a mask cracks, a bell peals off-time, an actor falters.

Endings

- Expose & Redirect: Law halts the rite; only the willing swap. Reputation boons carry forward.
- Strike in Glamour: Duel within unfolding illusions while allies sever a pillar.
- Take the Price: Bargain with Glamour or Desire; end the rite, owe a favor.

NPC Roster (Quick-Use)

Name	Desires, Leverage, Tell, Voice
Guildmistress Kavra	Stability; bravos, patronage; signet rub; clipped, economical speech.
Master Orun	Legitimacy; inspectors, antidotes; muttered measures; careful, exact.
Sel Virelle	Applause; charmed witnesses; mirrored phrasing; warm, rising cadence.
Lord/Host of Ravenswood	Prestige; hospitality law; fixed smiles; velvet, measured tone.
The Challenger	Territory; glammers, etiquette zealots; perfect posture; honeyed cruelty.
Masque Director	Immortality-by-swap; troupe fanatics; eye-contact tests; theatrical whisper.

Appendix A: Session 1 Outline (3 Hours)

1. Cold Open (15 min): Choose a hook; paint the crowd; surface a visible Diamond (Escort Writ in a steward's hand).
2. Investigation Beat (45 min): Redwater Audit or Missing Ledgers. Offer Position shifts via Diamonds.
3. Pressure Beat (30 min): Alleyway Serenade or Bridge Duel challenge.
4. Choice Beat (30 min): Which guild gets aid? Start one Guild Favor clock.
5. Climax (30–40 min): Public mini-debate or duel; on any miss, spend SB to tick Sel's Glamour Net [+1].
6. Fallout (10 min): Hand out one Diamond; foreshadow Ravenswood with a sealed invitation.

Appendix B: Printable Clocks

City Unrest [6]

Poisonings [4]

Sel's Glamour Net [4]

Gemcutters' Favor [4]

Alchemists' Favor [4]

Midnight Duel [8]

Etiquette Breach [4]

Act Countdown [6]

Appendix C: Player-Facing Rumors (Silkstrand)

- “Gemcutters bribe the river with rubies; the water drinks poorly of greed.”
- “Alchemists dump antidote pre-cursors at dawn—no poison, just panic.”
- “A singer can still a riot if the key is true.”
