The Shattered Covenant: Black Barrow Keep's Fall

A Fate's Edge Adventure for Tiers IVV (Paragon to Mythic)

1 Core Premise: The Tragedy That Broke the World

Centuries ago, King Lagan the Unyielding a mortal ruler of Payden's Port commissioned the Aelinnel (gnome) craftsmen of Black Barrow Keep to forge not just servants, but a Covenant Heart: a selfwinding engine meant to guarantee his lineage's eternal rule through perfect, unbreakable oaths forged in brass and blood. He believed: Mortal vows fade. Machine oaths endure.

But the Aelinnel, wary of binding souls to cold perfection, wove a hidden clause into the Heart's gears: True oaths require breath, not just tick. When Lagan activated it, the Heart didn't enshrine his power it shattered. The Covenant wasn't with the king it was with the Barrow itself, a slumbering entity older than men. Enraged, Lagan tried to seize the Heart... and the Aelinnel servants, their souls bound to the Barrow's will via the Heart's flaw, turned on him.

What happened next:

tem The servants didn't just kill Lagan's family they became hosts. As they slaughtered the royal line, whispers slithered into their brass veins: demons drawn to the Heart's broken covenant, seeking to wear flesh and steel as new bodies. tem Lagan's last act was to seal the upper keep not to trap threats in, but to lock the demonhosts out of the catacombs, where the Barrow's true heart slept. tem Now, the Mist has seeped through the seals. The demonhosts stalk the upper floors, their movements jerky, their eyes glowing with hellfire. Below, the Barrow's dead-kings, servants, oathbreakers are stirring, kissed by Mist Wraiths that carry the Echo of the Mist King: a forgotten monarch whose compulsion bends the dead to his will. tem The Bell Line fails not from neglect, but because the Mist King's Echo drowns the wards' living rhythm. Repairing it requires either: tem (A) Silencing the Covenant Heart (stopping the demon threat upstairs), AND tem (B) Facing the Mist King in the catacombs (to still his Echo or break his hold).

And sometimes... the heaviest debt is the one you owe to the king who tried to outlive his mortality.* fill Adapted from Dusana of the Raven Road, The Hearth Ledger

3 Adventure Structure (4 Sessions)

The Mist's advance serves as a duallayer timer: upstairs, the Demon Timer ticks as hosts awaken; downstairs, the Echo Timer swells as the Mist King's influence grows.

3.1 Session 1: The Ashes of Lagan's Line (Investigation Stakes)

Hook: Players arrive in Payden's Port as mist thickens like wet wool. Refugees whisper of brasshanded things in the keep's ruins and dreams of a crown of fog commanding the dead.

Key Locations:

tem The Salt Docks: Mist clings to cobblestones, revealing halfmelted brass figurines (Aelinnel craftsmanship) and scorch marks like branding irons. tem Investigation (Wits+Lore, DV 3): Success = find a child's shoe fused to a gear fragment (proof of the massacre). Partial = gain 1 Boon, but notice salt crystals avoiding the scorch marks (unnatural repulsion). tem Creative Use: Spirit+Insight (DV 4) to sense the lingering terror gain +1 die vs. fear effects here (you feel the injustice).

tem The Refugee Camp: A traumatized Aelinnel tinkerer (missing an eye, replaced with a cloudy glass orb) mumbles:

We built the Heart to serve life not to be a cage for hunger. When the king tried to rip it free... the Barrow answered. The servants... they weren't ours anymore.

tem Social (Presence+Sway, DV 4): Success = learn the Heart's flaw (it rejects pure mechanical oaths; needs breath in the brass). Failure = he attacks in despair (Harm 1; Desperate Position).

tem The Legate's Hall: Stone hall where Mistlander elders debate sealing the keep permanently (fire, collapse) vs. risking entry.

tem Social (Presence+Command, DV 5): Success = convince them to delay sealing (gain time to investigate); Failure = they begin preparations, advancing the SealTheDoom Timer (if full, they collapse the keep's entrancetrapping anyone inside).

Mechanical Focus:

tem Position as Moral Weight: Near the docks, mist feels heavy with unresolved guilt. Spiritbased actions gain +1 die (resonance with the tragedy) but risk +1 SB on failure (the Barrow's sorrow lashes back). tem Story Beats (SB): GM spends SB to reveal tragic details: tem 1 SB: A child's laughter echoes in the mist then cuts off abruptly. tem 2 SB: The scorch marks on the docks form a faint, fading sigil: Aelinnel knot of broken trust. tem 3 SB: A wraithlike shape flows uphill toward the keep carrying a tiny, tarnished crown.

Cliffhanger: At dusk, the Mist parts briefly revealing Black Barrow Keep's silhouette. From a shattered upper window, a single brass hand twitches in the fog... then stills.

3.2 Session 2: The Brass Gauntlet (Upper Floors – DemonHosts the Covenant Heart)

Hook: Players choose how to enter:

tem The Salt Causeway (narrow path; requires Athletics+Survival vs. DV 4 to avoid oilslicked stones and pressure plates that trigger grinding geartraps). tem The Refugee's Ladder (rope ascent through shattered shantytowns; risks drawing hosts to civilians; Social: Command+Presence vs. DV 3 to route civilians safely).

Key Locations:

tem The Shattered Atrium: Once a grand hall, now choked with demon-hosts humanoid figures in tattered livery, joints jerking unnaturally, eyes glowing with sickly green fire. They don't seethe sense rhythm (heartbeats, breath). tem Threat: Harm 2 per hit (their claws are superheated brass); ignores nonmagic armor. tem Position Shift: Flanking isn't just tactical it's breaking their sync. Success = they stutter (lose next action); Failure = they anticipate you (gain +1 die vs. you). tem Weakness: Loud, irregular noises (e.g., smashing pottery) impose 1 die on their attacks (Disperse their sense of rhythm).

tem The Workshop Corridors: Aelinnel craftsmanship twisted workbenches hold half-assembled hosts, gears exposed and sparking.

tem Clockwork Trap: Pressure plates trigger whirring sawblades (DV 3 Athletics to dodge; Failure = Harm 1 + gain 1 Exposure [the Heart notices your rhythm]). tem Creative Combo (Wits+Craft): Success = juryrig a gearjam to delay a trap (gain 1 Boon for next Athletics roll).

tem The Covenant Heart Chamber: The throne room's center holds the Heart pulsing, brass sphere the size of a man's head, veins of molten silver tracing its surface. Around it, demonhosts stand rigidly still... waiting.

tem The Heart's Temptation: It doesn't attack it offers. tem Mechanic: When a player takes an action here, the Heart whispers: Let me steady your hand. Let me still your fear. tem Accept (Spend 1 Boon): Gain +2 dice to the action... but mark 1 Obligation segment to the Heart (track separately). tem Refuse: No immediate cost, but the Heart's whisper lingers gain 1 Fatigue (the strain of resisting its help).

tem Clearing Heart Obligation: Requires an Act of Service celebrating imperfect effort (e.g., I deliberately miss this gear tooth on purpose, letting the scrape be uneven). Success = clear 1 Obligation segment. tem Silencing the Heart (The Key Step): Not a single roll a multistep process requiring specific skills:

tem Understand the Flaw (Lore+Arcana, DV 5): Success = learn the Heart needs breath in the brass to stabilize (i.e., introduce imperfection). tem Introduce the Flaw (Craft+Survival, DV 6): Success = jam a foreign, organic object into its veins (e.g., a salt crystal soaked in refugee tears, a living sprig of mistland moss). tem Critical Twist: If the object isn't truly imperfect (e.g., a perfect geartooth), the Heart rejects it violently gears spew molten brass (Harm 2 to all Near). tem Success: The Heart seizes not destroyed, but stalled. Demon hosts jerk violently... then collapse into inert brass husks. tem Cost: The stall is temporary. Every time you clear Fatigue via [HEAL] or rest, the Heart gains 1 "Tick" (it tries to restart). At 5 Ticks, it jolts back to life (advance the Demon Timer by 1 segment; hosts begin to twitch).

Mechanical Focus:

tem Obligation as Temptation: The Heart's offer isn't free power it's a debt that makes you more like it (Ch. 5.3.1 Obligation Overflow = Fatigue). Clearing it requires roleplaying humility (Ch. 15.5.2 OffScreen Clearing). tem Harm/Fatigue RollerCoaster: Host attacks deal Harm 2 (clearing all Fatigue per Ch. 2.10.2) but the mist's chill seeps in faster after, making recovery harder. Describe: The host's claws sear your arm white hot agony floods your veins. You gasp, not from pain, but from the sudden absence of the bone deep dread that's clung to you since the docks. Your vision sharpens... then the mist's whispers crawl back in, colder than before. tem Story Beats (SB): GM spends SB to reveal the hosts' tragedy: tem 1 SB: A host's jaw works silently *forming the word sorry before seizing again. tem 2 SB: Green fire flickers in one host's eyes revealing a human iris beneath the demon glow. tem 3 SB: The Heart's pulse stutters for 3 seconds, it matches your resting heart rate.

Cliffhanger: As the last host collapses, the Mist in the chamber parts revealing a staircase spiraling down into blackness. From below, a sound like wet stone grinding on stone... and a voice like wind through tombs: You silenced my jailers... but you did not silence me.

3.3 Session 3: The Echoing Deep (Catacombs Approach – Awakening Dead the Mist King)

Hook: The staircase descends into catacombs carved from living stone, walls veined with frozen mist that pulses faintly blue. The air tastes of ozone and old blood.

Key Locations:

tem The Whispering Vaults: Niches hold sarcophagi laced with silver not for decoration, but to contain. Lids are slightly askew. tem Threat: Mist-Wraiths (wisps of screaming fog) drift between tombs. Touch = Harm 1 [Mental] + gain 1 Fatigue. tem Awakening the Dead: Roll Wits+Survival (DV 4) to avoid disturbing a sarcophagus. tem Failure: Lid bursts open animated corpse rises (Harm 1 per hit; ignores nonmagic armor). tem Critical Detail: These aren't mindless zombies. They move with eerie precision, turning to face you as one the Mist King's Echo is syncing them. tem Creative Use: Spirit+Performance (DV 4) to sing a counterlullaby & wraiths falter for 1 round (advantage on next action).

tem The Hall of Oaths: A long corridor where walls are etched with oaths in Aelin-nel ledgers scriptnames of kings, servants, oathbreakers. The carvings are fresh, as if rewritten recently.

tem Social (Presence+Command, DV 5): Success = read the oaths' true meaning (they're not vows they're pleas: Remember me. Do not let me be forgotten.).tem Success: Gain +2 dice vs. Mental Harm here (you understand the dead's hunger). tem Failure: The words seem to shift as you readgain 1 Harm [Mental] (the Echo is probing your mind).

tem Obligation Mechanic: The Barrow tracks your respect for the dead.

tem Gain 1 Obligation segment: If you desecrate a tomb (e.g., loot without words) or speak ill of the dead. tem Clear 1 Obligation segment: Act of Service honoring the forgotten (e.g., I press my forehead to this cold lid and whisper the name I imagine they bore).

tem The Mist King's Audience Chamber: A vast, domed room. At its center: a throne of black stone, empty... but the air shimmers where a crown should be. Mist pools here like liquid shadow, coiling and uncoiling in slow, hypnotic patterns.

tem The Mist King's Echo: Not a ghostbut a resonance in the Barrow's stone, a memory of compulsion so strong it bends the dead to its will.tem Effect: All undead in the Barrow gain +1 die to attacks and ignore nonmagic armor (they move with unnatural unity). tem Social Challenge (Ch. 7.12.2): To resist or influence the King:tem Phase 1 (Wits+Investigation, DV 4): Sense the Echo's rhythm in the mist. Success = gain insight (you feel its "pulse"); Failure = gain 1 Harm [Mental] (the Echo stutters your thoughts). tem Phase 2 (Presence+Command, DV 5): Attempt to reason with the Echo or defy its pull.tem Success (Persuade): Gain +3 dice vs. undead effects for 1 hour (the Echo hesitates, confused by your voice). tem Success (Defy): Gain +2 dice to all rolls vs. Barrow threats (you stand offbeat to its rhythm). tem Failure: The Echo locks onto youmust spend 2 Boons to avoid Harm 3 (your thoughts stutter like a broken record).

Mechanical Focus:

tem Position as Rhythmic War: At Tier V, Position isn't just survivalit's whether you're in step with the Mist King's Echo.tem Desperate: Your breath hitchesinhale... exhale... inhalematching the mist's pull. You are becoming its voice. tem Dominant: You stand offbeat. The mist coils, confused. For now, you are not its echo.

tem Story Beats (SB): GM spends SB to reveal the King's tragedy:

tem 1 SB: A wraith's shape resolves into a child's face*mouth*ing a name you almost recognize. tem 2 SB: The mist forms a fleeting crown... then dissolves into weeping. tem 3 SB: The throne feels warm to the touchfor 3 seconds, like stone left in sunlight.

Cliffhanger: As you approach the throne, the Mist parts revealing a void where the crown should be. From it, a whisper like ice cracking: I was forgotten first. Let the world remember... or let it end.

3.4 Session 4: The King's Choice (Climax – Repairing the Bell Line)

Hook: The Mist King's Echo isn't a being to destroy it's a wound in the Barrow's soul. Repairing the Bell Line requires addressing why he was forgotten.

Key Choices:

tem Option A: Defy the Echo (Combat) tem Mechanic: Engage the Echo as a Social Challenge (Ch. 7.12.2) with escalating stakes:
tem Round 1 (Wits+Investigation, DV 5): Find the Echo's "weak point" (a memory of when he was first slighted). Success = gain +2 dice vs. him; Failure = he gains 1 Tick (advances Echo Timer).
tem Round 2 (Presence+Command, DV 6): Either: tem (A) Shatter His Will: Deal "social Harm" (Ch. 15.8.3.5 Full Ritual). Success = Echo flickers advance Seal Timer by 2 segments (Bell Line begins to heal). Failure = he counters gain 1 Harm [Mental] + Echo Timer advances 2 segments. tem (B) Bind His Will: Attempt to contain him (not destroy). Success = Echo stabilizes gain +1 die vs. Barrow threatens permanently (but you mark 1 permanent Obligation to the Barrow; clearing it requires Acts of Service remembering the forgotten). Failure = he breaks free Harm 3 + Echo Timer full (Barrow floods with awakened dead).

tem Risk: If Echo Timer fills before you succeed, the Barrow's dead rise en masse you must flee or be overwhelmed (Harm 2 per round until escape).

tem Option B: Remember the Forgotten (Persuasion) tem Mechanic: Perform an Act of Service so profound it addresses the King's core wound:

To stand between the forgotten and the remembered, and give voice to the voiceless.

tem Requires: tem Find His Name (Lore+Investigation, DV 6): Search the Hall of Oaths for a deleted oath (scratched over, but traces remain). Success = recover his true name (e.g., King Vorlag the Unmourned). tem Give Him Voice (Presence+Performance or Spirit+Lore, DV 7): Speak his name into the Mist Pool in the Audience Chamber, telling one true thing about him (not a lie to flatter the truth, even if painful). tem Success: The Mist Pool stills. The Echo doesn't vanish it changes. Gain +3 dice vs. Barrow threatens and the Bell Line flares to life (mist recedes, wraiths dissipate).
tem Failure: The mist rejects your words gain 1 Harm [Mental] + the Echo grows hungrier (Echo Timer advances 2 segments).

tem Cost: Even on success, the Barrow remembers its pain. Clearing its Obligation requires regular Acts of Service: I tell a story where the hero fails and I honor the try.

Resolution Paths:

tem The Bell Line Heals (Partial Success): You stall the Echo or give the King voice but not both. Mist recedes from Payden's Port... but lingers in the Barrow's depths. tem Cost: The Barrow remains a weakly sealed wound. Every full moon, mist seeps outward (advance a Moon Timer ; if full, repeat Session 3 threats). tem Legacy: If players retreat, a Follower they saved returns years later, seeking to finish the work offering a Legacy Bond (once/session: gain +1 die when acting to preserve forgotten histories).

tem The Covenant is Renewed (Full Success): You both stall the Echo AND give the King voice. The Bell Line flares stronger than before mist becomes a tool, not a threat (e.g., saltmist reveals hidden paths).

tem Cost: The Covenant Heart isn't destroyed it's reborn. It now ticks in time with the Barrow's living breath... but demands tribute. Clearing its Obligation requires Acts of Service honoring imperfect oaths (e.g., I swear to try and I will fail, and I will try again). tem Legacy: The Barrow becomes a place of pilgrimage. Scholars come to study its "living wards" and players might be called to defend it from those who would exploit its power.

tem The Barrow Hungers (Failure): You anger the Echo and fail to remember the King. The Mist King's wrath peaks she doesn't just awaken the dead; he unmakes the Barrow's seals.

tem Cost: The keep begins to sink into the earth. Players must escape (Chase Scene: Athletics+Acrobatics vs. DV 6 per round; failure = Harm 2 + trapped). Payden's Port is abandoned; the mist claims the ruins. tem Legacy: Refugees whisper of a "king who walks beneath the stones" and someday, someone will try to wake him on purpose.

5.2 Rewards (Treasure as Leverage Ch. 17.2) tem Minor: A tearsoaked salt crystal (once/session: clear 1 Fatigue when performing an Act of Service for the forgotten). tem Standard: The King's Last Letter (scorched but readable):

Spend 1 Boon to activate: For 1 hour, you gain +1 die vs. Barrow threats AND the Mist King's Echo cannot gain Ticks from you.
But: After use, roll d6: on 1, gain 1 permanent Corruption segment (the weight of his regret lingers).

tem Major: The Aelinnel Ledger of Broken Oaths (massive brass book):

Open to a random page: Read an oath the Barrow demands you break to prove your sincerity (e.g., "Swear you will never return here").
If you break it sincerely: Gain +2 dice to all rolls vs. Barrow threats for 1 day + clear 1 Obligation segment to the Barrow.
If you break it flippantly: Gain 1 Harm [Mental] + the Barrow marks you as oathbreaker (advance Echo Timer 1 segment).

5.3 Legacy Seeds (Ch. 19)

tem If players heal the Barrow (Partial/Full Success):tem The Covenant Heart now requires regular "imperfection oaths" to stay stable (e.g., I swear to try and I will fail, and I will try again). Clearing its Obligation: Act of Service celebrating a beautiful flaw (e.g., I baked bread that burnt and I shared it anyway). tem A refugee child they saved returns years later, apprenticed to an Aelinnel tinkerer, seeking to tune the Heart not to stop it, but to dance with its rhythm.

tem If players fail to heal the Barrow:

tem The Barrow's sinking creates a new mistchoked valley where refugees whisper of the "Walking King." tem Their Follower (if any) inherits a Legacy Bond: Once/session, gain +1 die when acting to prevent forgetting (e.g., visiting a grave, telling a story of the fallen).

tem The Mist King's True Legacy:

tem Even if "defeated," his Echo isn't gone it's transformed. tem On Full Success: His presence becomes a guardian of memory (once/session: gain +1 die when acting to honor the forgotten). tem On Partial Success: He lingers as a warning (once/session: gain +1 die vs. threats that seek to erase history).

6 GM Guidance: Running the Barrow's Tragedy tem Describe the Rhythm First: Before every roll, note the Barrow's pulse:tem Near salt (upstairs): The faint ticktick of stalled gears (safe for nowHeart is stalled). tem In the Whispering Vaults: Mist coiling in slow, hypnotic inhale... exhale... (sets Position for Mist King's influence). tem Entering the Audience Chamber: A deep, slow thoom... thoom... like a stone giant's breath. tem ß This sets Position narratively: Sync = Desperate (you're in its rhythm); Offbeat = Dominant (you're fighting it).

tem Use SB for Emotional Truth: Don't just spend SB on monsters spend it on the humanity beneath the horror:

tem 1 SB: A demonhost's brass finger twitch trying to wipe away nonexistent tears. tem 2 SB: The Mist King's Echo forms a fleeting sigh... like a man realizing he's been alone for centuries. tem 3 SB: A sarcophagus lid lifts just enough to reveal a folded, dusty linen shirt inside (a servant's last gift to his child).

tem Embrace the Temptation of Perfection: When players consider using the Heart's Boon, describe the allure:

The Heart's veins glow under your palms so close to steady rhythm. For one breath, you feel it: the Barrow isn't a tomb. It's a promise. All you have to do is hold this note... and never let go.

Then hit them with the cost:

But as you imagine that ease, you see the refugee tinkerer's face not angry, but sad. She's not begging you to stop. She's begging you to remember why a promise kept through fear is no promise at all.

tem Let the Barrow Remember: If players repeatedly use the same tactic (e.g., jamming the Heart with salt), the Barrow adapts:

tem After 2 successes, increase DV by 1 (it learns to deflect salt). tem After 3 successes, it develops a counter (e.g., gear teeth now flick salt away like water off a duck's back). tem ß This forces players to innovate, not just repeat (Ch. 7.3.4 When to Roll).

tem The True Victory Isn't "Winning": The Barrow doesn't need to be destroyed it needs to be understood. Reward players who:

tem Spend time reading the Hall of Oaths' inscriptions (not just looting). tem Describe how they honor the dead before acting (e.g., I press my forehead to this lid and whisper the name I imagine they bore). tem Choose to fail an oath sincerely (per the Ledger of Broken Oaths) to prove their respect.

The road remembers. Every broken wheel leaves a mark, every lit lamp bears witness. The only question is: what are you willing to owe? And sometimes... the heaviest debt is the one you owe to the silence between heartbeats the space where forgotten kings wait to be remembered. Owe it well. Or owe it forever. fill Adapted from Dusana of the Raven Road, The Hearth Ledger
